EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Railway Casualties—Singular Death of an Engineer

ROCHESTER, August 25.—As the express train due here at 10 o'clock this evening was approaching Batavia it ran into a carriage, killing both occupants. The engine struck the haunches of the horse attached to the carriage, killing it and rendering the carriage a complete wreck. The names of the occupants of the carriage were James Anderson and Dennis Detance. One of them was thrown a number of yards into a field and the other dragged along till the train stopped, his body being horribly mutilated. Engineer John Day stopped the train as soon as possible and got off the engine to see what injury had been done. In passing the front of the locomotive he saw it covered with blood and brains. He was so overcome by the shock that he walked but a few steps when he fell. He was carried into the smoking car where he died in a few minutes.

MARSHALL, Texas, August 25.—Last night a construction train ran off the track one and a half miles west of Gladwater station, throwing seven cars down an embankment, killing Alder Kendall and seriously injuring several others.

Belfast will Accept Donations.

BELFAST, August 25.—A Citizens Relief Committee has been organized to distribute such [illegible] of assistance from the Mayors of Portland and Bangor have been received by Mayor Marshall. The streets are nearly cleared of goods and furniture, and [illegible] now prevails. In answer to inquiries whether aid is needed, the Mayor has telegraphed as follows:

Belfast will accept with gratitude whatever pecuniary aid may be offered. She needs it. For the second time within eight years a terrible conflagration has smitten her. She asked no assistance then; [illegible] is compelled to do so. The amount of the insurance [illegible] 000 and but a small part of this will go to the destitute and poor. [illegible]

The California Cadets arrived here about 2 o'clock to-day and went directly to the Seventh Regiment Armory, that armory having been placed at their disposal during their sojourn here. To-night they will visit Union Square Theater by invitation. To-morrow evening the Seventh Regiment will give them a grand reception at their armory and the Cadets will give an exhibition drill. On Wednesday the Seventh Regiment will escort them to the City Hall where they will be welcomed and reviewed by the Mayor.

Laborers Killed by a Falling Embankment.

LITTLE ROCK, August 25.—While a party of laborers were at work on a bridge across Red river at Fulton for the C. & F. R. R., on Saturday evening, an embankment gave way, burying some of the workmen. Few particulars [illegible] received, but most reliable accounts state that two were killed and seven wounded.

John F. Benjamin Shot by his Partner.

HANNIBAL (Mo.) August 25.—General John F. Benjamin, formerly member of Congress from this district, was shot at Shelbina to-day by his partner, John Hanley, the ball [illegible] his left side but it is not known if the [illegible] is dangerous. The shooting grew out of a business transaction. Hanley has the habit of getting drunk and when in that condition is very quarrelsome.

Fire in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, August 25.—A malt-house and [illegible] with a large quantity of beer, and a part of the brewery of V. Blatz & Co. burned to-night. The loss is estimated at $20,000, insurance, $15,000.

Destroyed by Fire.

BOSTON, August 25.—A fire in Lynn last night burned French's furniture store and manufactory, Chase & Queen's furnishing store, May & Whitney's clothing store, Robinson's jewelry store, Tuttle & Bailey's grocery, and several other buildings. All moveable property was taken from the Sagamore House, although the building was saved. Losses are heavy.

BOSTON, August 26.—The loss by fire in Lynn is placed at one hundred thousand dollars. The amount of insurance is not stated.

Romance of the Goodrich Murder.

NEW YORK, August 26.—Some one who affects to know, gives this story in connection with the Goodrich murder, interest in which has been revived by the recent action of the police authorities. Kate Stoddard, when she was known by her true name of Betsy King, went to school where there were four Spaniards. One of them was called Roscoe. She was [illegible] to the young man, and before she disappeared from her parents' abode she was regarded as his betrothed. She is said to have renewed this acquaintance afterward in New York, and thus, too, when Goodrich appeared on the scene. This Roscoe is probably the one to whom Lucette Myers points as the one who killed Goodrich for robbing him of the affections of Kate Stoddard.

[illegible]

N. L. Lancaster of Chicago, returning there for the benefit of his health, arrived from Europe [illegible] having with him thirty thousand dollars worth of diamonds obtained at the gold fields of South Africa. On landing at the pier, a customs officer—Livingstone—took from Lancaster a small satchel containing the diamonds, and declared them seized alleging that Lancaster had denied having dutiable goods. The latter gentleman, however, asserts that he told the Inspector that he had diamonds and accounted for their possession by saying that he dug some and purchased others at South Africa. He also claims that there is no duty on uncut diamonds, and denies that he made any attempt at concealment, having displayed them among his fellow passengers and refused offers of purchase, desiring them for his own use. Lancaster goes to Washington to demand the restoration of his property, and will bear with him affidavits of his late associate travelers certifying to the truthfulness of his statements.

Arrest of Italian Slaveholders.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., August 26.—Two Italian padrones and six boys were arrested on Oak street last evening, having fled from No. [illegible] Crosby street, New York. The padrones have been placed under bonds of a $1,000 each to appear for trial in September. The boys are very young.

NEW YORK, August 26.—The U. S. Commissioner has discharged Vincenzo Mutea, accused of being a padrone, on the ground that it was a clear case of mistaken identity. The children found where he resides have been committed temporarily to the care of the Commissioners of Charities.

UTAH.

SALT LAKE, August 26.—Rev. C. C. Stratton replies to the card of Tilford & Smith, Mrs. Young's counsel in the divorce case. He reiterates his former statement that he has had nothing to do with [illegible] to compromise. He accuses counsel of defaming their client and himself. He quotes General Maxwell, who has also a card somewhat bearing [illegible] out. The balance of the statement is a general denial. He says that he is opposed to rascality in general, and hopes the law will take its course. Finally he will have his say. The suit will go on it is said before Judge McKean, although Mrs. Young is again reported to be attempting to [illegible].

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 26.—A motion was made last night in the Democratic municipal convention to appoint a new committee of conference with the legislative convention. It was lost. It will depend on the committee already in existence to accomplish this result if indeed it be possible. The convention is to meet again to-night.

The People's Protective Alliance adopted resolutions endorsing the anti-Chinese sentiments of Booth expressed in his inaugural and in his recent speech at Platt's Hall. The Society has determined to nominate a ticket.

The billiard tournament is not very largely patronized yet. In the games yesterday Mott beat Little, Kraker beat Terrell, and McCleery beat Watt. The playing did not produce any [illegible] Little and L. Perkins will play this afternoon.

The Democratic State Central Committee orders that the State Convention be held in Sacramento September 17th. The apportionment gives one delegate to each county, and one delegate for every 200 votes [illegible] every fraction over 100. The delegates are to be elected by the popular vote in each county in the State. All Democrats and all persons opposed to the National Administration are invited to participate in the election of delegates.

The steamer Great Republic, from China and Japan, is passing up the harbor. She will make a landing about noon, if not detained in quarantine.

The weather is clear and warm.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 26.—The trial of W. J. Bryan, for the murder of a Chinaman, was concluded to-day, and the case is with the jury.

Wm. R. Sprague on board the Revenue cutter Oliver Wolcott struck Henry Quinton with a capstan bar, fracturing his skull. Quinton lies in a critical condition at the hospital. Sprague has been arrested on a charge of assault with intent to murder.

John Jap, master of the ship [illegible] now in port from Cork, has given into custody a sailor who confesses a long list of robberies and murders committed here and elsewhere. Detectives are working at his case, but it is believed by many that the fellow is a lunatic.

At last accounts the jury in the Bryan murder case had not agreed on a verdict.

Henry Welmer, collector for Dr. Dougherty, was arrested to-night for grand larceny in stealing a gold watch and chain. He is also accused of other larcenies.

Several Chinese women arrived on the steamer Great Republic. On landing they were taken to the police headquarters and questioned about their age and occupation. None were to be found under eighteen—all said they were over twenty-one. They said they had husbands here but did not know their names nor their residence. They told the police the Hip Yee Tong Society would find them their husbands. They were told not to pay tax to that society, and that if found in a brothel they would be severely punished. They were then discharged.

A Mission street car upset near Tenth street this evening. The driver was badly hurt.

Considerable excitement was caused on Montgomery street to-night between a drunken sailor, a police officer and [illegible] eight civilians aiding the latter. The man fought all desperately and successfully till the officer beat him on the head with his baton, cutting him severely and knocking him down.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 26.—The independent anti-monopoly mass meeting at Platt's Hall is very largely attended. M. M. Estee is delivering a carefully prepared and able speech on the political issues of the day, which is received with frequent and hearty applause. The gallery is filled with ladies and hundreds of people unable to gain admission and seats have gone away. Mr. Cowles will follow later.

The Democratic municipal convention is in session to-night with closed doors. No [illegible] yet [illegible] compromise between the [illegible] convention. It is safe to say there will be a [illegible].

The billiard tournament was well patronized to-day. To-night the hall is filled. To-day Little beat Perkins and Mott beat Terrell. To-night McCleery and Kraker are playing. Bets are in favor of the latter but McCleery leads in the game.

Interior California.

MARTINEZ, August 26.—Judge Underhill, locating agent of the Central Pacific Railroad, was here to-day obtaining the right of way for a road along the south water edge of Carquinez Straits. A large party of ladies and gentlemen accompanied him on the ferry boat [illegible] to the mouth of the Straits where two [illegible] are being rapidly pushed to completion. The freedom of the boat with a luncheon was kindly furnished by Shirley & Co. and the party returned well satisfied.

BENICIA, Cal., August 26.—About 4 o'clock this afternoon a fire broke out in a shed in the rear of the Benicia brewery. In ten minutes after it was discovered all the rear buildings, including a barn filled with hay, were in flames. These buildings were closely connected with the largest portion of the business center of the city, and at one time it looked as if everything must be consumed. The [illegible] efforts of the fire department and the citizens generally, several with [illegible] extinguishers, did much in [illegible] the progress of the flames [illegible] Arsenal [illegible] everything is considered out [illegible]

LATEST NEWS ITEMS.

It is rumored in Paris that the proposed [illegible] between the Orleanists and Legitimists has been completely ended owing to the Count De Chambord refusing to accept the tricolor.

General Spinner does not expect to receive any addition to the list of Congressmen who have returned their back pay. He thinks Butler's letter influenced many to hold on to the money.

John Shields was hanged at Fort Smith, Arkansas, recently, for the murder of Welling, in Kansas, in 1870. This is the first Indian from the Cherokee or other nations hanged for murder.

A Milwaukee special to the Chicago Tribune says it is reported that the Hon. Matt Carpenter is about to commence legal proceedings against the Chicago Times for libel. The article was also published in the New York Tribune.

A ledger in the District Attorney's office, New York, contains the names of 300 merchants who have had to pay various sums from $10,000 to $100,000, to compromise suits brought against them by Special Agent Jayne and other Custom house officials.

At a meeting of the Sunday School Union of London, Rev. Mr. Hartley, who has just returned from an inspection of the school system of the United States, spoke in terms of high praise of the efficiency of American education facilities both as to sacred and secular instruction.

Great excitement exists in Baxter Springs, Kansas, over the discovery of lead in the streets of that city. A negro boy found it by accident a few days ago. The streets have been vacated by the City Council and the citizens generally turned out to mine it. It is in immense quantities near the surface.

The Court of Claims has given judgment for over $200,000 in favor of H. F. Atocha for damages sustained by his expulsion from Mexico by the Government of that country in 1849. The claim has been before Congress and the Courts for nearly a quarter of a century. A suit is now pending to recover lawyers' fees from his heirs before the award is made to them.

Secretary Belknap, after a rigid examination, has failed to discover any records of the War Department missing, with the exception of those in the Buell Court martial case. He however invites any one who can name any particular paper that he believes to be missing to report the fact to him, as it is nearly impossible to examine every paper in the Department. He hopes that parties who charge that papers are missing will always specify the documents, and further search will be made.

The Rev. Dr. Field of Washington has the following extract of a letter from Boston dated the 19th showing Mr. Wilson to be improved in health: "Vice President Wilson was at my house recently. He eats and sleeps as well as he ever did. He says he feels no weakness in his side or limbs and his walk is as easy as before. His affliction was paralysis of the facial nerves and not much else except that his whole system was overworked and run down. Electricity will be applied to his face if necessary."

Late advices from Lima, Peru, report that a serious accident occurred sixty miles from that place. A body of earth estimated at ten million cubic yards, fell from a mountain into a valley, severely injuring a number of persons and damming up a river, the water in which had risen 100 feet above the usual height. Engineers were of the opinion that the water would soon burst its barriers when it would rush toward Lima sweeping everything before it and submerging the lower portion of that city.

The death record of the Chicago and Alton Railroad near Lamont places the number of the dead at one hundred, with others still lingering on the edge of the grave. A United States Marshal and a detective have just returned home from a two days search for Bean, the conductor of the freight train that collided with the passenger train on Saturday night near Lamont, but without success. His parents and wife, who reside here, said he would deliver himself up if he could feel that his life was safe. It is believed that it is his intention to give himself up after the excitement is over.

AMITY, August [illegible], 187[illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Having been engaged in threshing for several days I am enabled to say that wheat is turning out much better than was anticipated. The grains are plump and heavy. With a liberal price for grain we predict a little more money in circulation than we have been wont to have for the last few months.

Fruit and berries of all kinds are abundant [illegible] than usual.

Harvest hands are [illegible]. Wages [illegible] per day.

In harvest time we are too [illegible] to write long letters, and that's what's the matter with NOTA BENE.

A SPANISH PRINCESS.—The Spanish correspondent of the New York Herald thus speaks of Donna Maria:

When I first saw her she was chatting with several persons, and like the queen who was in the garden eating bread and honey, was [illegible] a piece of black bread with hands [illegible]. She is quite young, not more than [illegible], and a very fair blonde, small in person and perfectly [illegible] in manner. She wore a long [illegible] riding habit of black cloth, a jacket and a white bonnet with a long golden tassel precisely similar to that worn by her husband. Upon the sleeve of her jacket as well as upon that of the prince are three fleurs-de-lis in gold embroidery. The bonnet becomes her charmingly, but since she scorns to avoid the hot sun of Spain has done some damage to her complexion. WASHINGTON COUNTY LETTER.

[illegible] CITIZEN TALKS [illegible] A BITTER [illegible] THE MAN WHO [illegible] BITTERS [illegible] AND HOW THEY WERE [illegible] AND A FEW [illegible]

WASHINGTON COUNTY, August 22, 187[illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The [illegible] of the Progressionist, the liberal [illegible] organ of this county, has taken a change of base. Having failed to produce any effect by either [illegible] or whip on the [illegible] Republicans of this county, he is now going to operate on their stomachs. According, this worthy has been afflicted with [illegible] jealousies and ruffled [illegible] has been a disappointed office [illegible] organizer and schemer, and while laboring under an attack of all these diseases he [illegible] accidentally discovers a medicine which he calls Sartor Resartus Bitters. From the face [illegible] swallowing, they are evidently [illegible] bitter. He says they relieve the stomach of all disappointed bile, they relieve the mind of sore-head jealousy and "produce a cowardly, low lived feeling, which often amounts to down-right cussedness," all of which the columns of the Progressionist amply prove. But they also throw the Doctor into paroxysms of rage, in which he attempts to prove that political whoredom with Brown, Blair and Tweed is consistent with Republican chastity. Having convinced no one but himself of his own purity, next on the principle we suppose that the greatest criminals always turn State's evidence, the Doctor proceeds to administer merited punishment to all bolters in this county. That is right, meet and proper. Having experienced in his own person the baseness and treachery necessary to constitute a bolter no one can be more capable than himself to denounce and expose that class of persons. The Doctor charges that a certain man in this county three years ago bolted and united with the Democrats to defeat the nominees of the County Convention. The Doctor himself bolts on a much larger scale. He does not merely try to defeat county nominees for minor political offices but by a union with the Democratic party of the entire nation and with such men as Doolittle, Frank Blair, Gratz Brown, Schurz and Wm. M. Tweed he endeavors to break up the entire Republican party and defeat the nominee of the National Convention for President. Yet according to the Doctor's logic, as only small criminals are punishable and large criminals respectable, he should be honored as a leader, and the poor creatures who were so unfortunate as to sin in so much smaller scale, kicked and cuffed out of the party. But is it generous for the Doctor while struggling so hard for admission to the Republican ranks to push back others who have strayed in the same paths but less distant? Hadn't he better get fairly within the party himself before he closes the doors to keep others out? Hadn't he better learn the true principle of the party before he begins to kick out older and better Republicans, whose only sin consists in not supporting his miserable sheet to which truth and common sense are such strangers? Shouldn't he show genuine repentance for his political treachery before assuming to be a leader? Isn't it customary to place deserters fresh from the enemy's camp in command so soon? The Doctor says National Democracy is dead. Doctor, what was the name of the party which nominated Greeley and Brown? Why don't you stick to it? You answer that a bolter through gratitude if nothing else, should stand by the party that assisted him. Oh! Exactly so. So the Liberals paid you nothing for your treachery? You sold yourself and got no pay? You were not knave and fool both? So you now deny the sale? So now, like the boy reproved for fishing on Sunday, who replied, "It can't be no great sin, 'cause I ain't cotched nothin'," you think your treason to party and principle no great sin since you didn't catch anything.

Another question Republicans of this county would like answered. When the Doctor arrived here finding the party divided between two factions, why did he make such indecent haste to become the most abject tool of one of them? One little fact will explain this as well as many other peculiarities of the Doctor. He has a master. The utterances of the Progressionist are not his own. Its utterances and course are directed by a certain man who has held office in this county for many years, who at the last election delayed his political burial by getting down very low and coming up very dirty, who procured the nomination to his present position by making promises and pledges which he has labored hard to break, to procure whose nomination a certain editor threatened that if not made, the Republican party, so far as he (the editor) was concerned, might go to the devil. He would support neither party nor candidates, who while a member of the Legislature, found means to borrow thousands of dollars from the State officers, who, at one time, could find no words strong enough to express his detestation of Ben Holladay, and in one week from that time had sold to him the west side railroad—stockholders and all—and had become one of the most obsequious fawners at his feet, who, as the price of that contract obtained a contract giving him the power to control the railroad policy of this county and is now responsible for the disastrous effects of that policy on so many citizens of this county, who in order to secure the position he now holds distinctly in connection with Mr. H. pledged his word to the effect that certain changes should be made [illegible] to a large part of this county, and is now carrying out plans in flagrant violation of those pledges and refuses to contract for Mr. H. to carry out his own agreement; who has repeatedly made to the railroad authorities concerning an entire community [illegible] in which he knew there was not a [illegible] of truth; who for the past two years has persistently endeavored to increase his own prosperity by destroying that of others, and who has striven to fill his own pockets by legally picking those of his neighbors. [illegible] him in these schemes he thought he needed a paper, a paper needed an editor. As one of the means he intended to employ were such as all honest men would not approve, it was necessary the editor should not be [illegible] with such troublesome things as principles and conscience. It was necessary for his purpose that his paper should [illegible] Republicanism [illegible] public principles could not be found sufficiently abject. It was necessary to look to [illegible] organizers as Blair, Brown and Schurz. Thither he went and found his [illegible] pliable and abject enough, and [illegible] a plentiful lack of conscience and principle. [illegible] the county at large? He should advocate a reform in the [illegible] warehouse system as conducted by his master. When the farmers of [illegible] communities were asking for railroad accommodations, did he say a word in its favor while his master was loading the wires with dispatches against it? In conclusion, so far as he advocates true Republican principles he will have our support; so far as he prostitutes his columns to blackmailing, to personal abuse of Republicans, to creating divisions in the party, to tearing open old wounds in the party, and all for the purposes of aiding and forwarding the plans of a man who in both business and politics is distinguished for unswerving selfishness, we think he will meet and deserve the opposition of the majority of the party.

We await the amount of abuse usual from him to other correspondents. CITIZEN.

LETTER FROM SEATTLE.

SEATTLE, W. T., August 23, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The second meeting of the King county Teachers' Institute closed last evening after a series of sessions during four days. It is a wonder that such an object could collect an assembly twice and even thrice a day for many successive days but the interest continued to the last, and the session closed on Friday night at 10½ o'clock.

The President, F. K. Hill, who is also President of the University of Washington Territory located at Seattle, had prepared a full programme of themes, and appointed many persons to fulfill the duties assigned. Many of the appointees, male and female, responded and thus gave variety and stimulus to the exercises from day to day.

Mr. Hall is one of our foremost educators. With much quiet dignity of manner, added to a natural reserve and respect for others, he evinces a thoughtfulness and vigor which must make his instructions as valuable in school as his methods are efficient with the public [illegible]

I inclose a copy of his programme. Yet he estimates this Institute as less lively than the one last year, though it promises more important results to the cause of education in Washington Territory.

Dr. Reynolds, Superintendent of Schools for Washington Territory, was detained from the meetings by sickness in his family.

Prof. Lyman of the Pacific University, was present most of the time and added much to the value and force of the discussions by several pertinent addresses and lessons drawn from the [illegible]

Judge Jacobs made several short and vigorous speeches.

Rev. Mr. Fairchild read a well prepared paper upon teaching, habits and [illegible] in school, which was requested for publication.

Mrs. Dr. Weed read a sharp criticism and discussion as the [illegible] may be called, upon the question "Should women teachers have the same compensation as men teachers for the same labor?" This will be given to the press by request.

Mrs. Bell read an essay upon "Music in School," which I did not hear, but I did often hear Mrs. Bell—herself a teacher—and her two beautiful young daughters, play the organ and sing several charming pieces of music and my thought was that the argument of such examples would convince any one of the fitness of music in schools.

Miss Wellman gave a recitation with great effect, showing that she has command and culture of voice, and of sentiment also.

Rev. G. F. Whitworth, Superintendent of Schools for King county, was constantly in attendance, giving pertinent addresses and well defined criticisms much to the profit of the occasion.

Mr. Theobolds, well known as one of the most highly educated gentleman on the coast, was listened to with pleasure, whenever he spoke.

John Jessup, Esq., Superintendent of Schools for British Columbia, narrated the history and progress of the freeschool enterprise there and indicated its hopeful future, by his own energetic style of thought and action.

Rev. G. H. Atkinson, of Portland, gave an address upon Teaching as a Profession, which will be published as requested.

Mr. White, late from West Virginia, made some strong points respecting the wisdom of promptly completing the free school system in every State and Territory.

Miss Parsons, lately a teacher in Seattle, and other ladies and gentlemen had papers and took part in the discussions which I did not hear.

A few such institutes as this and the last one at Vancouver, W. T., will create a public sentiment on this subject that will command and enforce the best school system.

Seattle has a vigorous business and social life and now its citizens are moving strongly for a narrow gauge railroad from Walla Walla through the very fruitful valley of the Yakima with its fine tributaries, over the Snoqualmie Pass to the Sound at this point. The oldest and foremost engineer in this region pronounces this the natural route for a narrow gauge road. It is to be hoped that the projectors will succeed in the enterprise which will unite eastern and western Washington, and make them mutual benefactors besides enriching all border sections and the broader commerce of the coast and the sea.

The dedication of the new Congregational Church here will occur to-morrow at 11 o'clock, A. M. Rev. G. H. Atkinson preaches the sermon. Rev. Norman McLeod, late of Salt Lake City, preaches at 4 o'clock P. M. The trustees and friends of this church deserve praise for their patient energy in its erection and completion. Its graceful exterior and neat and simple interior finish receive the commendation of all classes.

With haste, yours, etc. COVI

THE PUYALLUP VALLEY.

This valley is in Pierce county, W. T., is drained by the Puyallup river and its tributaries, the mouth of which is in plain view of the new terminus site and only three miles distant from it. The valley is about fifteen miles long, by an average of about three miles wide, the Reservation reaching about six miles up the river from Commencement Bay into which it flows. The soil is mostly of a dark sand and loam and very fertile. The forests are mostly cottonwood of large growth. Much of it is still uncleared. This, no doubt, is to be the supply garden of the great city of the future. The river which is larger than the Yamhill may with one [illegible] be navigated by steamboats like that [illegible] twenty five or [illegible] years hence it will be done. At present there are some fifty families besides half as many single men in the valley. They have two sawmills and one gristmill, three stores, two schoolhouses and a Methodist and Baptist society reported there. [illegible]

Thompson, the pioneer hop grower of the county, is growing about fourteen acres this season and estimates that at least one half of his field will give two and a half tons per acre. The increasing product compels him to enlarge his furnaces, dry houses, etc. The drying is done by placing the fresh picked hops on large drawers like racks in a large tight room with a furnace underneath the racks, heated with dry wood fires. Mr. E. Meeker also has a large field of hops looking well, which, with the six acres of near neighbors to dry and pack, enables him to enlarge his dry house twofold and open a grocery for the benefit of the business. A large portion of the valley seems to be unoccupied or vacant, especially in the upper end. A station on the N. P. R. R. was laid off for a town site called Stuckville near Mr. Thompson's, on the river, but the railroad turned off and went to the bay.

The Astorian of Tuesday says: The schooner Mila Bond, Captain Paul Corno, about which so much conjecturing has been indulged recently, as to the date of launching, etc., happily surprised all by sailing into this port last night about as good as ever. She made the run from Tillamook to the Columbia river bar, 45 miles, in three hours and a half yesterday morning.

It is reported that Hon. F. P. Dugan, well known in Eastern Oregon and Washington Territory, died at La Grande on the 22d inst., and that his remains were taken to Walla Walla for [illegible]. Work is being pressed on the Walla Walla and Columbia River Railroad, but owing to the additional labor required in putting down a [illegible] track, it progresses slowly. At this date they have two miles of track down, and over the portion thus completed the locomotive is running. The Statesman says: It begins to be a matter of speculation as to whether the road will be completed in time to move this season's crop. A failure in this regard will entail a serious loss upon our people and will retard the progress of our valley.

The Olympia Courier of the 25th inst. says: Some [illegible] of the leading citizens and members of the press gathered in at the office of Hazard Stevens last Saturday evening, and there met Colonel [illegible] and Gov. WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 27, 1873

A DEPLORABLE MISTAKE

The recent massacre of one hundred and twenty Pawnee Indians by eight hundred Sioux opens up what promises to be one of the bloodiest chapters in the history of our dealings with Indian tribes. By treaty stipulations with certain tribes of the Northwest (among which are those above mentioned) it is permitted the Indians to go out annually upon the great buffalo pastures of the Northwest to revive their ancient field sports. To the savages who chafe and fret through the restraints of winter life on the reservation it is doubtless a joyous deliverance, a season of high carnival. It is moreover the wise and salutary provision of a humane policy, not only in a sanitary point of view but as showing that regard which a great and magnanimous people ought to have for its "wards." In this brief season of recreation are revived the least harmful of old time aboriginal customs. The red man under all circumstances holds tenaciously to the belief that the hunting grounds are his by inalienable right, and the [illegible] of which we speak [illegible] in many instances, been held by them an indispensable prerequisite to entering into treaty negotiations with the government.

It was from one of these peaceful excursions into the vast buffalo ranges of Kansas that a small hunting party of Pawnees [illegible] laden with the spoils of the chase, when they were so cruelly beset by an ancient foe. They had enjoyed a season of unusual prosperity. Game had been abundant, and the [illegible] had fallen before the rifles of their young men, they had escaped the molestation of marauding bands, and now they had turned homeward to enjoy the fruits of the hunt in peace on their reservation. Just on the edge of the hunting ground their [illegible] therefore a last grand slaughter. In this hour their cowardly enemy descended on the almost defenceless [illegible] and [illegible] their women and children and the few warriors who had not joined in the chase. Antoine Janis, who was in charge of the [illegible] this atrocious deed, has written a letter giving his version of the [illegible]. He says that on the morning of the 2d of August six Ogalallah scouts came in and reported the Pawnees [illegible] the Republican. There was great excitement among the Sioux, and very [illegible] they mustered for the bloody [illegible]. This man Janis tells us that Little Wound (the [illegible]) came to him and asked him if he had any orders to keep him (Little Wound) from going to fight them. The answer of the [illegible] that [illegible] degree of [illegible] for that which followed upon his [illegible]. "I told him I had not." The chief [illegible], perhaps, of shunning a part of the responsibility, said that [illegible] to go to the Pawnees [illegible] to fight them, but had no [illegible] to this part of the country. I told him I would go with him and see the Pawnees [illegible].

[illegible] to this arrangement.

"They said I prevented them from going to the Utes, and [illegible] and stole their horses, killed one of their men, and they thought the same thing would occur [illegible] if they did not strike the Pawnees [illegible]."

The Sioux started out on the 3d, were joined by the Brules, reached the Pawnee camp on the 4th, completed their bloody work and then disappeared off over the prairie. We have already published the details of this horrible [illegible] there, telling how the dead and dying were heaped together and burned while their savage murderers danced in fiendish glee about the slowly dying Pawnees. Mr. Antoine Janis, at the [illegible] of his [illegible] dis[illegible] with appalling frankness that his [illegible] of the number of Pawnees slain—50 to 118—may be incorrect, but "the Pawnees will know the exact number they lost."

"Here, then, was the agent of a great government boastful—and justly so—of its successful treatment of the savage by peaceful methods, to whom a chief comes [illegible] about the right to commit a shameful outrage, and to whom he returns the [illegible] I have no instructions from Washington authorizing me to restrain you." This feature of the case needs no other comment.

And now, what in all likelihood will be the result of this sad work of red tapeism? The answer is furnished by the following dispatch from Nebraska:

Advices from the Pawnee reservation in Nebraska [illegible] the Pawnees are preparing for war with the Sioux, in retaliation for the attack on them some days ago. They are said to have about 600 warriors among themselves, and have invited the Otoes, Omahas, Yanktons and Poncas to join them, nearly all of whom have accepted the invitation and at last accounts the braves of these tribes were either at or on the way to the Pawnee Reservation. The Pawnees expect to muster 1,000 warriors and propose to prosecute a relentless war against the Sioux.

There are one or two other matters connected with this lamentable affair which we reserve for future discussion.

RELATION OF THE GRANGES TO POLITICS.

The S. F. Call having suggested that the Farmers' Granges of California present a candidate for Supreme Judge in the coming October election in opposition to the railroad and other rings which are actively working, the Pacific Rural Press declares that such action would be contrary to the doctrines and teachings of the Patrons of Husbandry. Its reasons for opposing the recommendation of the Call are stated so tersely and with such farmer-like sense that we copy the most pungent paragraph:

Our contemporaries entirely mistake the object of the Granges in supposing that they will take any active part in politics as Grangers—especially in going so far as to nominate candidates for office. Their influence can be more effectively employed in holding all the various political parties on their good behavior. The Patrons of Husbandry will vote for good men only, and when they go to the polls they will select such men from the various tickets presented as, in their judgment, will best subserve the public interest. They will most assuredly reject all monopolists and ring-men, and all those who may be in open or supposed sympathy with them or who may be even suspected of looking to private gain from the office which they seek.

It is stated that a majority of the last Illinois Legislature was made up of Patrons of Husbandry, if such was the fact it was because the people at the primaries saw fit to nominate such [illegible] and we know of no reason why Patrons should not vote for their own members when they are put in nomination at the primaries—especially when no better names are presented. [illegible] there will do well to keep these facts in view when they make their selections for candidates.

The trial of Thomas Hartley Montgomery for the murder of William Glass, which has just terminated at the County Tyrone Assizes, Ireland, developed a new and startling phase of the homicidal mania. Glass was cashier of a bank in Newtownstewart; Montgomery was a sub-Inspector of Police. The murder was a most atrocious one, and so [illegible] did the murderer conceal all vestiges of his crime that although the most [illegible] was thoroughly searched not a particle of evidence could be found against the accused. Nature, however, aided most remarkably in fastening the crime upon its perpetrator. Near the locality of the murder was a huge stone which no one had thought of overturning. A heavy rain came, washing away the soil at the base of this rock and revealing to the detectives a mass of bonds and other valuable papers, together with the weapon of the murderer. Circumstantial evidence indicated the accused as the real criminal with such unerring certainty that on a third trial he was found guilty by a jury. When called up for sentence Montgomery confessed his guilt, and urged in extenuation the plea that he was insane when he committed the awful deed. "It was a murder," he said, "that no educated man, no man of feeling could have committed. Why, a savage of New Zealand could have done nothing worse. But I was a demented being at that time, bereft of reason, and there is a very great difference between my crime and that of a man who knowingly and willfully commits an act of the kind." He opened a new lead in the insanity plea by declaring solemnly that his unsoundness of mind was the result of drugs that had been administered to him at the house of his wife's uncle previous to his marriage, for the purpose, as he alleged, of rendering him an easy victim to the matrimonial snare. He was to have been hanged on the 26th of the present month.

Somehow the impression prevails that Gen. Butler would like to be Governor of Massachusetts. His friends are pushing him forward at any rate, and the doughty politician has been heard to remark that if he is to be exalted he would prefer Boston to Worcester as the place of meeting of the nominating Convention. Worcester is strongly anti-Butler and now singularly enough, it transpires that the hall in Worcester which had been designated by the Central Committee has been engaged by another party for the entire third week of September. As the time fixed for the Convention was September 17th it becomes necessary to change the time or the place of meeting. The New York Times says that Butler's friends are plotting for an earlier day, [illegible] that the sooner the Convention is held the better his chance for the nomination. It doesn't say that Mr. Butler or his friends had anything to do with the lease of Worcester town hall.

The N. Y. Herald has been consulting the augurs again, and is boring the country with [illegible] editorials on the adaptability of Americans to Cæsarism. The N. Y. Times makes caustic reference to this new hobby of the great American weathervane and says that the reporter of the Herald accompanying the Presidential party on the recent tour through Maine was so offensive in his minute descriptions of incidents that he rendered himself extremely obnoxious to the party. Finally says the Times, he was detected at eavesdropping and summarily ejected from the cars. It refers to the obsequiousness of the Herald's European correspondents when royalty is the theme, cites some of the most flagrant specimens of their toadyism, and concludes a bitter editorial with "The Herald asks if we shall ever have an Emperor. We cannot say, but it is quite certain that when we do have one, he will not stand in need of an abject flunkey."

Mr. John Crowley, of Springfield, Illinois, thinks he would be a good and reliable witness in the Tichborne trial. His mother he says, kept a tavern in Clogher, Ireland, at the time that the real Sir Roger was stationed with his regiment at Cahir Barracks. In that day Crowley was a young man given to field sports and studying to qualify himself for the profession of veterinary surgeon. Sir Roger was but an indifferent horseman, and he employed Crowley to instruct him. In this way an intimate acquaintance was formed, and the Springfield surgeon learned many things which might now be useful in the identification of the claimant.

CITY.

[illegible] For several evenings [illegible] people on Front street [illegible] of Stark have been afforded a [illegible] by the queer and very [illegible] number of [illegible] These [illegible] the family of night hawks and [illegible] after dark gyrating [illegible] in all directions and making [illegible] shrill cries. Most frequently [illegible] seen during the warm summer [illegible] but very seldom if ever during [illegible] few evenings since about half a [illegible] these creatures were observed flying [illegible] between sundown and dark. They would circle around and around near [illegible] then dart off through the air [illegible] above the buildings gyrate about [illegible] return to the same place [illegible] again these birds would perform [illegible] unless evolutions. These [illegible] at length attracted public attention and drew a crowd of curious spectators who were not a little puzzled by the singular [illegible]. For nearly half an hour [illegible] became quite dark the birds kept up these strange movements when they would suddenly flit away and be lost to sight. They [illegible] alighted on the ground and then only just for an instant. In all their movements these creatures appeared oblivious of the presence of the crowd as they flitted hither and thither almost against the faces and legs of persons standing about. Last evening about the same hour these birds appeared in great numbers again. Several persons armed themselves with sticks and [illegible] killing three of them. What these birds can be in quest of is the leading conundrum with the populace.

SAD ACCIDENT.—A gentleman who has been over in Tillamook county furnishes the following particulars of the drowning of Mrs. G. W. Elmore on Tillamook Bay last Wednesday. It seems that a party consisting of Miss Letitia Duncan, Miss Alderman, Mr. F. N. Duncan and Gus Trimpton, had prepared to take a sail from Tillamook to Lincoln's Landing and Mrs. Elmore hearing of it, requested the privilege of accompanying the party, which was granted. After sailing a little over half the way, and when in the act of rounding a bend the sail jibed causing the boat to upset. With difficulty the occupants, with the exception of Mrs. Elmore, managed to keep on the upturned boat. Mrs. Elmore was seen to make an attempt to swim ashore, about sixty yards distant from the place the boat had upset but her strength failed, and she sank in the presence of the others who were unable to lend any assistance, they having great difficulty in saving themselves. The boat drifted to the shore and the remainder of the party gained terra firma thoroughly drenched and worn out in their struggles to keep on the boat. On the following day the body of Mrs. Elmore was recovered by means of grappling irons. The event cast a gloom over the residents of the whole county who respected the deceased very highly. Mrs. Elmore was about fifty years of age at the time of her death, and leaves a husband son and daughter to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate mother.

GETTING BETTER.—Young Waller who was thrown out of a buggy about a week ago, some distance west of the city and terribly hurt, is reported to be slowly improving. For nearly two days and nights he was almost totally unconscious. He at length so far recovered as to be able to speak and converse. He is wholly unable to determine how he was thrown out of the buggy, and as no one saw the accident, the exact manner in which he was hurt is not known. One arm, leg and side are partially paralyzed by the [illegible] blow he [illegible]. It is hoped however, that in time the full, free use of these portions of the body will gradually come to him. At last accounts, Waller was able to sit up, and was slowly gathering strength.

GOING TO SALEM.—We are informed by the Agent of the Bishop Opera Troupe that it is quite probable the Company will visit Salem before departing from the State. Entertainments will be given in this city on Friday evening of the present week and on Monday and Wednesday evenings of next week. Should it be determined to visit Salem at all, the troupe will go up on next Tuesday and give a concert there on the evening of that day. This arrangement will doubtless meet with the hearty approbation of the Salem people, as it will afford them an opportunity of hearing this celebrated cantatrice without visiting Portland.

NEW TELEGRAPH LINE.—A gang of men are now engaged in planting poles along the railroad line between Oregon City and Portland preparatory to stretching wires for a new line. Brackets will be placed on the poles so that a number of wires can be stretched. One of these lines will be used by the railroad company and the other by the Western Union Telegraph Company. The old lines formerly used by these companies will be abandoned and the new one adopted. The cable which crosses the river just below the foot of Stark street will be used by the Telegraph Company.

INSANE PATIENT.—Sheriff Stillwell, of Tillamook county, arrived last evening having in charge an insane man from that county. The unfortunate person's name is Wm. B. Smith. He is aged about 23 years, and unmarried. The cause of his insanity is not known. At times he was very violent and had to be bound hand and foot before he could be controled. He was committed to the Asylum.

ANOTHER CASE.—We are informed that a young man named Charles Williams a printer by trade and well known in the city, has taken the smallpox, and was removed to the pest house yesterday. It is thought he contracted the contagion at the house of Mrs. Welch where he called several times to see a friend who had been stricken down with the disease.

CURIOSITIES.—We observed yesterday a box containing various geological and natural curiosities, on the O. S. N. Co.'s wharf, which will be shipped to San Francisco on the next steamer. These curiosities were collected in Eastern Oregon by the State Geologist, Rev. Thos. Condon, and will be sent to Prof. Gilman of the State University of California.

EXAMINED AND ACCEPTED.—Mr. Holman superintendent of Construction yesterday examined a portion of the castings to be used on the capitol building and having found them satisfactory accepted the lot which is the first installment turned out of the order given to M[illegible] contractor. These castings will be shipped to Salem this week.

IN SESSION.—The Board of Equalization for this county composed of the County Judge, Commissioners and Assessor are now in session adjusting and equalizing the taxes of the county. To do this will require considerable time, and the Board will probably continue its labors for some time.

LIVELY AGAIN.—Several vessels are in port discharging cargoes and the docks are again lively. Huge piles of merchandise lay in all directions on the wharves and rumbling of trucks and drays, the hum of human voices and the tramp of feet are again heard.

SOCIABLE AND BENEFIT.—In the basement of the Methodist Church this evening a sociable and benefit entertainment will be held. A pleasant time is guaranteed to those who may [illegible]. The ladies having the affair in charge [illegible].

B STREET EXTENSION.

A VISIT TO THE EXTENSION AND IMPROVEMENTS [illegible] THAT [illegible] AMOUNT OF LABOR EXPENDED [illegible] THE EXTENSION [illegible]

Early yesterday morning we took a stroll along B street beyond the bridge which spans Tanner's creek. Only those who have been along the extension of this street can form an adequate idea of the immense, we might almost say stupendous amount of work completed and being prosecuted in what is commonly known as the B street extension.

Several years ago B street from the [illegible] brewery to Tanner's creek consisted of nothing more than a common wagon road which ran over the rugged and uneven ground without any reference to the established grade. The road crossed Tanner's creek on a small bridge. Just above the bridge was a ford [illegible] whether teams forded or crossed on the old bridge. In winter when the stream became swollen from the rains the teams usually crossed the bridge but even then the creek sometimes during a freshet reached such a height that the bridge was overflowed and travel to and from the city suspended until the partial subsidence of the waters. For many years this state of affairs continued until the increase in wealth and population of the city and its ever widening and spreading suburbs rendered a change one of the necessities of the times. B street as it was the main thoroughfare leading from the northern portion of the city to the country was at length graded, and subsequently as trade augmented it was planked. This improvement only extended to a point westward a little beyond the brick brewery. Beyond that point extending toward the country an immense cut would be necessary to continue the street at the established grade. To open the street through to Tanner's Creek to where the old bridge stood would require a cut of 60 feet by several hundred and a great deal of filling up. But at length the City Fathers ordered the street to be graded through. This work required a large force of excavators several months. The earth was of a loose and sandy character rendering digging comparatively easy, and the removal of the dirt less laborious than if the cut was made through rocks or clay beds. The undertaking however, was immense as the cut in the highest place was about 25 feet. When [illegible], the loose earth was carted a short distance and dumped along on the southern bank of Tanner's creek, which at that point is both high and steep.

Favored by this circumstance, the work progressed with much greater celerity than if the earth had been hauled to a greater distance. Besides a good roadway could be made over and above the rugged depressions which intervened between the western limit of the grade and the bank of the creek, where it was intended to place the abutments of the bridge which was to span the stream, on a level with the grade of the street. As a portion of the improvement contemplated by the Council, the bridge was erected over the stream. This structure was over a hundred feet in length and built about 60 feet above where the old bridge formerly stood.

From the end of the bridge the road led to the country, and had been, in many places made [illegible] in the side of the rough ground which came sloping down toward the creek. As may naturally be supposed this road was laid out and improved without any reference to grade or street. By the annual repairs and improvements which were made to this road it became a good thoroughfare during the summer and was quite [illegible] in winter. About two years ago, when the Washington street extension was made a bridge was built over the creek but a few rods above the one at the end of B street, which has increased the traveling facilities to and from the city.

Early during the present season a further extension of B street was determined upon by the Common Council, with the approval of property holders who would be directly affected by such improvements. This extension contemplated neither more nor less than the continuance of B street from the eastern end of the bridge on that street to a point some distance beyond the Bishop Scott Grammar School. Such an improvement would, considering the [illegible] the [illegible] to extend, involve an immense amount of labor and a large sum of money. It would necessitate the cutting of the width of the street for a distance of nearly one quarter of a mile through a heavy embankment for most of that distance. In many places the line of the street would lead over the edge of the bank of the creek in its meanderings and thus involve the "building" out of the street to its established width. Additionally there would be numerous small ravines which breaking from the high lands above, came winding down across the road and would have to be filled up. But the greatest portion of the work would be required at the wooden bridge over the creek. The extension contemplated the removal of the bridge and the filling up of the [illegible] from bank to bank on a line with the grade, [illegible] and west. To fill up the creek for a distance of at least two hundred feet on an average of seventy feet deep and for a width of over eighty feet was certainly no small undertaking. However stupendous all these improvements appeared, it was determined to put them through this season. Accordingly contracts were let to various parties for sections of the street included in the extension, and work began in earnest. The work commenced [illegible] ago and has been prosecuted with all vigor to the present writing by a large force of men. A visit to that portion of the city will convince one that these months of labor with the pick shovel and wheelbarrow have not been barren of the most astonishing results.

The wooden bridge has been torn away along the street (the bridge at the end of Washington street affording facilities to the traveling public in the meantime) and the most of the required filling completed. Many thousand cubic feet of earth, however, will be required ere the wide gap which yawns between the made embankment on each side will be filled up.

At an earlier stage of these improvements, a large culvert was constructed along in the bed of the stream. This culvert is made of brick. It is over 100 feet long and is six feet in diameter, being made perfectly round like a huge cylinder. On top of this culvert the earth is thrown to a height of more than 60 feet. Each end of the culvert is left open of course, and the size of the passage is sufficient to allow the water to pass under the embankment even when the creek is swollen. The culvert is made smooth on the interior so that drift wood will not catch and thus obstruct the egress of the water. A better arrangement than the above could hardly have been devised. The masonry work of the culvert will last for half a century and subserve all the purposes intended. As the water can pass through and continue its course undelayed its action cannot effect the embankment in washing away the earth and endangering the safety of the foundation.

Beyond this last mentioned point, the work of excavation and filling up is [illegible] with a spirit of determination [illegible] giving assurance that the whole work will soon be finished. In the progress of the extension the earth which was removed from the line of B street has been found totally inadequate to furnish the quantities required to bring the street up to the required grade in many places. To meet this deficiency the contractors have been compelled to forage so to speak for earth. An abundance of this material could be procured by grading down the intersecting streets between the proposed line of B street and that of C. Very heavy cuts would have to be made to bring these streets down to the grade required and thus immense quantities of earth could be obtained [illegible]. It thus happens that within the last three months a wonderful change has taken place in the appearance of that portion of the city. We were very much astonished yesterday at the changed aspect of the [illegible] street has been graded from the west end [illegible] of the creek to a point beyond the [illegible] school. The streets running north and south —[illegible]th 16th 17th and 18th—have also been graded down between B and C streets and the [illegible] filling up [illegible] the line of extension. All of these streets [illegible] have been opened through cuttings, all the way [illegible] feet in [illegible] places. Some idea can be formed of the [illegible] of labor already performed and which [illegible] excavation and filling on B street [illegible] reach 80,000 [illegible] appearances [illegible] the work has been accomplished [illegible] forward [illegible] when [illegible] the undertaking [illegible] will probably be concluded within six weeks or two months from date.

At no time in the history of Portland has a public improvement of this character of equal magnitude ever been contemplated, entered upon and accomplished in one season. If any one should doubt the truth of this assertion they have only to take a stroll along B street to have all skepticism on that subject removed.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL.

Madame Anna Bishop accompanied by her troupe consisting of Alfred Wilkie tenor [illegible] Lutton and [illegible] will arrive in Portland to-morrow [illegible] concert will be given by Madame Bishop assisted by the above [illegible] artists on Friday evening [illegible] concert will also be given on Monday and Wednesday evenings of next week. It is wholly needless for us to urge the public to attend these concerts. The world-wide celebrity of Madame Bishop and the known and [illegible] ability of the other members of the troupe is a sufficient guaranty of the high character of the entertainments which will be successively offered.

Mrs. Laura Agnes Stevenson the noted vocalist and performer gave an entertainment last evening at Masonic Hall. It was her first appearance before a Portland audience. We [illegible] that a first class audience [illegible] The entertainment was given under many disadvantages but Mrs. Stevenson [illegible] triumphantly vindicated her claims to [illegible] A finer cultivated vocalist and more accomplished pianist has rarely ever visited this city. The entire programme was rendered in accordance with the strict and highest conception of the musical art and we sincerely regret that a larger audience was not present to enjoy the entertainment. Those who were present were not lacking in enthusiasm or appreciation of Mrs. Stevenson's efforts. In a few days she will leave the city for a professional tour on the Sound and British Columbia. We sincerely hope that this versatile and accomplished musician will find it convenient and profitable to visit our city again.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Activity on the wharves.

Rather damp on the outside.

Circus at Oregon City to-day.

The bark Rival is on the way to this port.

Steamer arrived at 10 o'clock last evening.

Anniversary festival of the Portland Turn Verein at Ankeny's Hall this evening.

No less than eight ocean vessels on the Columbia and Wallamet rivers at the present time.

A large crowd gathered on the wharf yesterday to witness the hoisting of the new safe for the National bank.

A large locomotive for the Northern Pacific railroad will be brought up on the Rival and discharged at Kalama.

Captain Chester of the Superb has had considerable experience in the trade between Coos Bay and San Francisco.

When we have amusements there is a surplus of it. Every night this week one or more performances will be offered to our citizens.

The carpets and furniture saved from Protection Engine House, during the fire were being placed in the room over Jacob Mayer's store yesterday.

All the banks close on Saturdays at 1 o'clock P. M. as per agreement recently entered into, the announcement of which appears in the advertising columns this morning.

AMUSEMENTS.

A number of persons were employed yesterday in decorating Ankeny's Hall for the Turn Verein festival, which takes place this evening. A stage has been constructed at the Second street end of the hall under the direction of Carl Bosco. Delegations from the Salem and Oregon City Societies will arrive by evening train and will assist the home Society in making the affair this evening a grand success. As the proceeds are to be turned over to the Relief Committee for the sufferers by the recent great fire this fact alone should induce every body to attend. Of course the hall will be crowded and those attending are assured of a pleasant time.

BRICK DUST DEPOSIT indicates kidney complaint. Check it at once. Helmbold's Extract Buchu the Diuretic par excellence, is a certain specific for all diseases of the urinary organs and sexual system. Dr. Helmbold is the only man who ever really utilized and extracted the pre-eminent virtues of Buchu. His preparation is as much superior to the so-called Buchus as cream is to skimmed milk. In fact it never fails. Sold by druggists.

TIME TRIES ALL THINGS and has proved that DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY is the remedy par excellence for the cure of coughs, colds, croup, whooping-cough, bronchitis, asthma, phthisic, sore throat and influenza. It cures coughs and colds [illegible]. It soothes the irritated parts, it heals the inflammation and even consumption itself yields to its magic influence.

COLEMAN'S Dr. J. S. Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medical [illegible] EUCALYPTUS the Eucalyptus, which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medical [illegible], having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER, [illegible] SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for [illegible] surrounding [illegible] and cures them by its alterative healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and [illegible] such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY [illegible]

This preparation is the result of Dr. Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U. S. Marine Hospital in San Francisco in 1871 and 1872, where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the promised results and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office, 605 K[illegible] street, San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful yet harmless febrifuge and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical medicines for those diseases are entirely avoided.

GENERAL NOTES

An Illinois widow fainted dead away at the grave of her husband, and was married two weeks afterwards.

It is said that the ancient gates of Constantinople, which endured the attacks of decay for more than 1,100 years, were made of cypress wood.

The [illegible] Springfield (Mass.) factory are supplied by the proprietors with chewing gum in order that they may not waste time in talking.

At a love feast in New Haven on Sunday a sister publicly thanked God that she had outlived her husband [illegible] he would not let her be immersed.

During the year 1872 there was an increase of 300 in the [illegible] of [illegible] in [illegible], the total number in the United Kingdom being now a little over 12,200.

This is hard on the little one. A little girl at [illegible] [illegible] years without a name, her fastidious parents not being able to find one to their taste!

The late Dean of Winchester, who had well-nigh reached one hundred years of age, died at last "through taking [illegible] too strong for him," says a London paper.

[illegible] country by pleading one case and winning it, and now she has lost four cases in succession. She doesn't seem to be a success.

Thirty three widows [illegible] society in Watertown, New York, and the sound of a pair of boots going by the house where they meet is enough to stop all the machines and needles.

The Washington firemen were unable to make connections with the fire plugs or hose at the Baltimore fire. It is suggested that steps be taken to secure uniformity apparatus of all over the country.

[illegible] and just returned home [illegible] thing everywhere, and what she learned at Saratoga is, that the people who spend the most money at watering-places are the old men with young wives.

The circulation of the leading London newspapers is stated upon good authority to be as follows: The Daily Telegraph, 170,000 copies; the Standard, 140,000; Daily News, 90,000; [illegible] 0,000; Times, 70,000. The morning and evening papers together give a sum total daily of [illegible]00,000 copies.

Susan B. Anthony [illegible] the Boston [illegible], "wants the name of the Pullman cars altered either to Pullman-and-woman or all-irrespective-of-sex cars." It is likely that the [illegible] is in a fair way to have its cars [illegible] the result [illegible] pure nonce.

A private [illegible] that [illegible] Gordon has [illegible] Fort [illegible] is believed to have gone to Fort Edmonton, fully one thousand miles to the northward. It is said that he left within two days after an angry interview with his counsel who dunned him for money.

[illegible] ure is equal to her [illegible] simplicity was [illegible] by an Advent [illegible] to join his sect, let her white robe ready, and prepare to ascend. "I can't," [illegible] somebody must stay to see to the [illegible].

The first [illegible] professor appointed in the Woman's College of the Northwestern University, in Illinois, is Miss Frances Willard. She occupies the chair of æsthetics and has a salary for the first year of $1,800, with assurance of an annual advance for the next three years of [illegible]. Five ladies have been elected to the board of trustees of the University.

[illegible] Bible printed in the Persian language because it was bound in Russian leather. [illegible] substituted for the leather [illegible] took it and pushed his spectacles up to his forehead, which seems to be the royal habit when his majesty wishes to inspect anything closely with which he is pleased at first.

[illegible]

A Lafayette, Indiana, druggist offended a customer who inquired for chloride of sodium by advising him to go to a butcher shop and get some rock salt, that being the purest article. The man didn't [illegible] to be insulted in that way—if he didn't [illegible] chloride of sodium [illegible] that store now has amply [illegible] price fifteen cents an ounce.

[illegible] "INIGO" AT SARATOGA.

John Paul (C H Webb), writing about a concert at the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga, says:

If I am ever [illegible] speaking in any terms save those of enthusiastic praise of anything in which my wife is one of the committee of arrangements, let me no longer be correspondent of thine. This was the first time [illegible] Mrs. Paul [illegible] in similar character—printed in pink letters on a cream tinted card—and she has been too proud to talk to me ever since. She can now reach down her clothes from the highest hook without the aid of either ladder or ladder. I didn't [illegible] that she did any more than any one else, that she bought no tickets I am morally certain, for we both sailed in as members of the press, the most independent of journalists. Indeed she was not aware that she was a committeeman till the thing was over and some one informed her that her name was on the programme; but now she considers that the success of the affair is due wholly to her. "Didn't the concert go off well?" she remarks to every lady she meets whose name was not on the committee, graciously adding, "I seldom take part in such things but on this occasion I consented to act, the object being such a laudable one. You know a few prominent names are necessary to give the public confidence that their money won't be all spent. I suppose now that you went because you saw my name there." [illegible] pleases the other lady, of course, and she at once kisses my wife on both cheeks and beseeches her to come over to her room and bring her sewing and spend every morning for a week, and then goes down to the spring and confides to every friend she meets that she suspects that little Mrs. Paul is no better than she should be, she may be married to that red headed, knock kneed chap, with big feet, that goes around with her, but she [illegible] a good deal more respectable if she hadn't any husband at all rather than such a looking one as that [illegible] that for her part she wouldn't have such a husband for the world. Then she playfully alludes to my wife's back hair, perhaps, and says if she cannot do it up more becomingly herself she had better employ a hairdresser, and if she can't employ a hairdresser she has no business to be here at Saratoga swelling round in a corn-colored barege cut in the back way down to her heels and [illegible] get some one to stick her on the Committee of Arrangements because that loverish looking husband of hers writes for the newspapers. The lady to whom all this is confided immediately comes to my wife and tells her all it has been said, and this makes it interesting and pleasant all round.

A letter from a leading New York house speaking of the [illegible] of [illegible] money market argues that the [illegible] consider [illegible] the prospects of an [illegible] of the extreme stringency [illegible] perhaps [illegible] is found in the fact that many [illegible] have so shaped their arrangements for the [illegible] a little [illegible] upon the money market. The London money [illegible] working [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] prove to be an important [illegible] for experience has [illegible] [illegible] the hope of a really easy fall in the money market [illegible] expect a condition of comparative [illegible] good [illegible] excessive [illegible] stringency as [illegible] serious panic.

A Treaty with the Islands.

[illegible] of Honolulu papers [illegible] with [illegible] treaty of reciprocity with the United States, based on the cession of what is known as the harbor of Pearl river to this country. While such a treaty might be [illegible] advantageous to our country, and especially to the commercial interests of the Pacific coast, we are led to believe that the harbor which is proposed to be ceded would be an very valuable acquisition. We are informed by a former resident of the Islands who has made personal observation of the harbor that as far as utility is concerned it would be of very little practical benefit. It is situated eighteen miles from Honolulu, and though it would be a safe roadstead for vessels, access to it would be a matter of great difficulty. For vessels to reach it they must cross a coral reef in the mouth of Pearl river over a [illegible] length, over which the breakers roll in great volume and force. To clear this entrance would require the expenditure of a large sum, but once opened the harbor would be a very good one were it not so remote from all points of supply. [illegible] given us of this site we believe our commercial interests would be quite as well conserved without Pearl river harbor as with it.

The World's Gr[illegible]

[illegible] New York [illegible] Exchange [illegible] of the 9th inst. contains the following [illegible] grain trade in different parts of the world.

The wheat export movement [illegible] rates of freight. With diminished [illegible] perhaps this may be slightly [illegible] movement of corn shall continue [illegible] it has been for the last two weeks. There has been, even with the scant freight room, an active demand for wheat, but quite largely for forward delivery. Under the influence of prospectively diminished receipts and more orders from the other side, there was a good spot and forward delivery demand.

The farmers' deliveries of home-grown wheat in the [illegible] in England and Wales for the week ending July 19 1873 were 1,118 qrs at an average price of [illegible] per qr against [illegible] qrs for the corresponding [illegible] average price of [illegible] and against an average of the corresponding weeks of the last ten years of [illegible] qrs at an average price of [illegible] per qr.

The imports of foreign grain and flour into the [illegible] for the week ending July [illegible] were: Flour [illegible] cwts, wheat [illegible] cwts, corn [illegible] cwts, oats [illegible] cwts, barley [illegible] cwts, peas [illegible] cwts, beans [illegible] cwts, other grain [illegible] cwts. Total [illegible] cwts.

The exports from the United Kingdom for the week ending July [illegible] were: Flour [illegible] cwts, wheat [illegible] cwts, oats [illegible] cwts, barley [illegible] cwts, peas [illegible] cwts [illegible]

The approximate supply of wheat for the week ended July 19 1873 flour included, comprising the farmers' deliveries in the kingdom, plus the imports minus the exports, was equal to 259,833 qrs against an estimated average weekly consumption of from 400,000 to 423,000 qrs per week. The supply the previous week was 449,773 quarters, or a supply in two weeks from imports and deliveries of home grown wheat of 708,[illegible] qrs against a consumption in two weeks of 800,000 to 849,000 qrs, indicating that the stocks in the granary were reduced in two weeks 137,494 quarters.

The total of flour and wheat imported into the United Kingdom from September 1, 1872, to July 12, 1873, was equal in wheat to 10,787,302 qrs and the exports during the same period were 143,[illegible] qrs, leaving a balance of imports equal to 10,6[illegible] qrs, which is equal to a gross import per annum of [illegible],317,652 qrs. The gross imports from September 1, 1871, to August 31, 1872, were 9,[illegible] qrs, against 9,300,676 qrs for the corresponding period in 1870-71.

Advices from Odessa, under date of July 17, 1873, give small stock of wheat [illegible]. The continued drought in [illegible] Russia has [illegible] considerable damage to the wheat crop [illegible] the provinces of [illegible] and Podolia good supplies are expected, while the other provinces will, it is feared, be able to furnish but little wheat for exportation. From Taganrog the harvest reports were decidedly unfavorable, from Berdiansk scarcely encouraging, and from [illegible] the wheat plant was reported damaged by [illegible].

The stock of wheat in Marseilles July 16, 1873, was [illegible] metrical quintals, against 42,000 metrical quintals at the corresponding date in 1872. The imports of wheat at Marseilles for the week ended July 19, 1873, were 140,[illegible] cwts, including [illegible] ship loads from Southern Russia, 1 from Turkey, 1 from Tunis, 1 from Egypt, 1 from Italy, 14 from Spain and 1 from Algeria. The imports for the [illegible] week in 1872 were [illegible] cwts. It was expected at Marseilles from the tenor of the advices received from the interior of France, that the French wheat crop of 1873 would be a poor one.

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada, August 2d, was 17,[illegible] bushels, embracing 4,208,[illegible] bushels of wheat, 10,[illegible] bushels of corn, [illegible] bushels of oats, and 114,771 bushels of barley.

[illegible]

The exports of breadstuffs and provisions from the [illegible] Portland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore for the week ending [illegible] 9th were: Flour [illegible],000 barrels, wheat [illegible],000 bushels, corn, 148,000 bushels, rye, [illegible],000 bushels, pork, [illegible] barrels and tierces, bacon [illegible] pounds, lard 2,[illegible] pounds.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The market is still active and demand brisk at $1 70 ℘ cental.

FLOUR—Prices are firm at $[illegible] ℘ bbl for standard and extra $[illegible] for outside and country [illegible]

OATS—There are but few lots offering, which are freely taken at [illegible] including sacks.

BARLEY—The demand at this writing is rather weaker and buyers are not anxious at more than $1 40@1 42½ ℘ cwt.

HAY—The supply [illegible] up at $10@11 ℘ ton for loose timothy [illegible] baled.

FEED—With a rather short supply prices are well maintained and advance looked for, though quotations as yet are unchanged.

POTATOES—The receipts from adjacent farms and down the river keep our market well stocked. Prices are given at 37@40 cents ℘ bushel.

APPLES—We note [illegible] supplies, and jobbers paying [illegible] ℘ box.

ONIONS—The new crop comes slowly to hand and quotations are furnished as weak at 2[illegible] ℘ lb.

BACON—The market is being relieved of some of the large stocks held since last spring, and with lighter receipts prices are firmer, though not positively advanced on the figures last given.

LARD—Demand fair at [illegible] ℘ lb in kegs and [illegible] in tins.

BUTTER—The market is very well supplied with all varieties, the best bringing readily [illegible] per lb, while common lots are dull at [illegible]. Prices depend entirely on quality.

CHEESE—Both California and Oregon are in fair supply, the latter ruling at [illegible] ℘ lb.

EGGS—Receipts have somewhat increased this week and jobbers have dropped prices to [illegible]

CHICKENS—The market is [illegible] nearly barren as last week, but no over supply is yet noticed. We quote spring chickens at $[illegible] ℘ doz, grown $[illegible]

SHEEP—Good mutton sheep are worth in this market $2 [illegible] ℘ head.

DRESSED HOGS—Demand [illegible] and prices [illegible] which have reduced receipts. We quote [illegible] at [illegible] cents per pound.

BEANS—The inquiry for future delivery is quite fair. Ruling rates at present [illegible] cents ℘ lb [illegible]

HIDES—Receipts light with a moderate inquiry at [illegible] cents ℘ lb for green, [illegible] for salted and [illegible] for dry. Culls [illegible]

WOOL—The inquiry this week so far is rather more active than last with no important change in the market, [illegible] most only a firmer tone. We quote good to choice lots at [illegible] cents [illegible] the seller.

SMALL POX.

DOCTOR BORZKAU'S SMALL POX REMEDY. SAMUEL CORWIN, Proprietor, can be procured at all the Drug Stores in this city at the present time. As this medicine is proving an inestimable boon to the afflicted with that disease, no person should neglect the present opportunity of providing themselves with this valuable antidote.

Price ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

Portland, Oregon, Aug 22, 1873.

MR. SAMUEL CORWIN—Sir: In justice to yourself and for the benefit of those who may be afflicted with the small pox, I am induced to give publicity to the following facts. About the 20th of July, 1873, I became very unwell, having severe pain in my head, back and limbs, which continued to increase in severity for three or four days, a very high fever set in and I began to break out on my face, neck and body with what proved to be small pox. I procured of Dr. Freeland, of the Central Drug Store, a bottle of your small pox remedy. Notwithstanding the severity of the attack I administered the medicine myself, not in accordance with accompanying directions, but in about double doses. In three days all pain and fever disappeared. My recovery was extremely rapid, notwithstanding frequent exposures by moving about from place to place while in a high fever, which is generally considered fatal in that disease, and it is my firm conviction that under the ordinary treatment for that disease I would not be living to day. I took of the medicine about two and a half bottles, more perhaps than was necessary, [illegible] discontinue until a thorough cure was effected.

PETER TURK.

I know of my own knowledge that the foregoing statement is true in every particular.

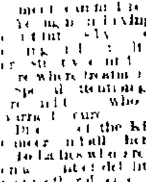
NEW REMEDIES! NEW REM[illegible]

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



623 KEARNEY ST., NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, [illegible] Weakness, Impotency, etc. Diseases of years standing, Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing he has returned from visiting the principal hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money seeking out new remedies and has [illegible] increased facilities for the alleviation of suffering.

Horrible D[illegible]

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret in[illegible] from virus absorbed into the system! [illegible] pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment [illegible] In this horrid situation thousands suffer [illegible] closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends send to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his a[illegible] study [illegible] and who is certain to cure the worst [illegible] without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who [illegible] all cities publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from [illegible] other places. Be therefore careful and [illegible] inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of charlatans.

S[illegible]

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual in[illegible] practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms [illegible] combatted by scientific medical [illegible] low countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confusion [illegible] stunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania, and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give Five Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DR. GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing [illegible] Dollars coin in registered letter through the Post office or through Wells Fargo & Co. a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates, deceive the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places [illegible] trad[illegible] men and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, [illegible] carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry; it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he professes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney [illegible] corner Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box [illegible]

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,9[illegible] ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the [illegible] OREGONIAN. jy[illegible]
